

Based in Dahlonega, GA North Georgia Concrete is known for doing difficult jobs and bringing them in on schedule. North Georgia Concrete is an industry leader in the construction of dams, building the first piano key weir in North America and the only three-stage weir in the world located in Peachtree City, Georgia. NGC takes pride in their quality of work ensuring we maximize all of our resources resulting in satisfied customers.

North Georgia Concrete takes great pride in their community involvement. We sponsor various recreational and school sports' teams along with supporting our first responders at an annual appreciation event. We are also a passionate supporter of The Joseph Sams School (a school serving special needs children) hosting an annual sporting clay tournament for fundraising needs. North Georgia Concrete has offered support to Boy Scouts working on their Eagle Badge and contributed to local churches for different missions and fundraising goals. Over the years NGC has sponsored various golf tournaments and events for a variety of charities. Community involvement is at the heart of NGC and we are very honored to be able to serve our community and be a part of creating opportunities for families and children.
